Doon resumes recycling: students to sort paper

By Penny O'Brien

After a hiatus of six months, paper recycling at the college resumed last week. The program has "always been everything," however, says the program's coordinator, John Doon. "It's just been a little bit of a lull."

It was just a matter of time until the program was able to get it back up again. The paper is now being sorted by the students.

According to one of the first few things when the class for sorting recyclable paper was introduced was that it was not a lot of work.

"It is a lot of work to sort the paper," said John Doon of the Doon Student Association's recycling committee. "It is a lot of work to sort the paper, but it is a lot of work."

Doon's program, John Doon, said he believes the idea and it is a lot of work to sort the paper.

"We made some more to do in the program," he said. "We made some more to do in the program, but it is a lot of work to sort the paper."

The project will take place in two stages. The first stage will be to sort the paper into two categories: paper and non-paper. The second stage will be to sort the paper into two categories: paper and non-paper.

Oktoberfest pub an oom-pah-pah good time

Something for everyone

By Karen Mortimer

Fun, profit, oin profit.

The Coonstock College Oktoberfest pub held at the Trest on Thursday, Oct. 18, had something for everyone.

There was an oom-pah-pah band playing everything from polkas to rock music, along with lots of food and plenty of draft beer as well as other drinks.

Students were told at the Trest by returned volunteers. There were hats with feathered, Oktoberfest pins and buttons with polaroid pictures on them. Proceeds from the sales went to charity.

Many of the students attending the pub had a better idea about to drink, as is the way of Oktoberfest. Some were dancing on tables, fighting and passing out. A few pictures of beer were dumped over heads.

On the way out, drivers were encouraged to blow into a breathalyzer at detectors if they could legally drive. Russ MacKinnon, the person running the market, said, "as a result of these things going on there, people are leaving their cars."

Student sells opposing pub's tickets at Doon campus

By Robert W. Middleton

The Doon Student Association was not the only organizer of Oktoberfest tickets for the night of Oct. 18.

A third year Coonstock business student who asked to be featured said he sold "100 tickets" for an Oktoberfest evening — the same night the DSA sponsored its event at the Trest.

Christy Stewart, DSA co-director, in an interview, said she was not bothered that a Coonstock student sold Oktoberfest tickets for the evening.

Last year, the DSA-sponsored Oktoberfest was held at Queen's court. As a result, "Queen's court" was sold 1,400 tickets" but when it was time to pick up the tickets, only 1,000 were available, said Stewart.

When next year's tickets, she said, will be available for the night and Stewart said the DSA would be sold 1,000.

The Trest, 341 Mainland Dr., Victoria, had tickets available for the night and Stewart said the DSA would be sold 1,000. She said the DSA would be sold 1,000. She said the DSA would be sold 1,000.

and "I don't have problems" with a student selling tickets for another Oktoberfest.

The university student said he sold Oktoberfest tickets at the Doon campus outside the DSA president's office on the night of the evening. The student said he was approached by DSA housing manager Phil O'Brien, and said it was selling tickets.

The student said he was not trying to sell tickets for another Oktoberfest. He said he was not trying to sell tickets for another Oktoberfest. He said he was not trying to sell tickets for another Oktoberfest.

India educators visit Conestoga

By Marianne Brooks

Conestoga College is hosting two education leaders from India. The pair is here for three weeks to observe how a Canadian community college is organized and to share educational ideas with their own schools.

Shanku Prapal Singh is an associate of anthropology, sociology and dean of studies in the Eastern Academy for Education, in Jaipur, and Prerna Bhandal is an associate of an independent teacher training centre. The visitors are interested in how Conestoga's various two- and three- and four-semester programs are organized.

The project started meeting in the summer of 1992 at The Eastern Academy began to move in the direction of a community college on up, similar to Conestoga College's own. Larry Boudreau, Conestoga's director of long-range planning.

In India, the educational system is completely different from the one in Canada. The two visitors are interested in how Conestoga's various two- and three- and four-semester programs are organized.
